Last Ashada Friday

Devotees throng Chamundi Hill

Deputy Commissioner D. Randeep along with his wife Arpita Raj and daughter Aarna are seen at the Chamundeshwari Temple atop the Chamundi Hill on the last Ashada Friday this morning.

Mysuru, July 21 (MTY&VNS)- Thousands of devotees thronged the Chamundeshwari Temple atop the Chamundi Hill on the occasion of last Ashada Friday this morning.

Devotees reached the hilltop as early as 2 am and stood in queues till 5.30 am before the temple doors were open for darshan of Goddess Chamundeshwari. As usual, special puja rituals began at 3 am under the guidance of Chief Priest Dr. Shashishekar Dixit and Devi Prasad. Devotees braved the chilly weather and early morning drizzle to have a glimpse of the Goddess.

The temple was decorated with various flowers and many volunteers were seen distributing prasadam for the devotees near the Mahishasura statue. This apart, thousands of devotees also climbed the steps from the foothill to fulfil their vows.

City Police teams headed by DCP (law and order) Dr. H.T. Shekar had provided tight security atop the hill. Announcements were being made through loudspeakers cautioning the devotees about pickpockets on the prowl.

Many devotees travelled in special buses operated by KSRTC from Lalitha Mahal Helipad and City Bus Stand. Legislators from across the State too visited the temple on account of last Ashada Friday.

Various associations were seen distributing prasadam to college students and public at several parts of the city.

Meanwhile, Suttur Mutt also distributed *prasada*m at its premises at the foothill of Chamundi Hill. Every year, Suttur Mutt distributes prasadam to devotees climbing the steps on last Ashada Friday. Today, the devotees savoured Mysore Pak, Laddu and Kesari Bath which was distributed by Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swamji.

JSS Mahavidyapeetha Executive Secretary Dr. C.G. Betsurmath, Secretary S.P. Manjunath and others were present.

Mysuru, July 21 (RK&BCT)- The indelible ink vials manufactured by the Mysore Paints and Varnish Limited (MPVL) for marking the fingers of those casting their votes will soon roll into history as the company is manufacturing trendy marker pens for the same purpose. The MPVL, also called MyLAC, which is the sole supplier of ink for elections, is awaiting a final nod from the Election Commission of India (ECI).

The marker pen facility at the MPVL was inspected this morning by Karnataka State Election Commissioner (SEC) and senior IAS officer P.N. Sreenivasachari.

Chasing Creativity

Given the mounting numbers and nature of problems being faced by people as individuals, society as a community, governments as custodians of administration and, last but not the least, the nation as a country of relentlessly expanding population with diversity that no other country in the world hosts, it is presumptuous to feel complacent about addressing the problems to their logical end. However, human ingenuity raises hopes of success by choosing the wiser option in the grim scenario of not giving up. The poet has rightly said that hope is eternal in the human breast. Since the time of earth first playing host to homo erectus (human being walking with a straight back), life has never been hunky-dory marked by countless problems, many of them being the result of misconduct on the part of human populations, in addition to factors beyond human control.

History recorded over centuries, portraying the happenings in different regions of the globe, is replete with details of wars that see human beings in poor light and devastating outbreak of diseases that have taken toll of lives of people in numbers of astronomical proportions. Driven by the desire to live free from suffering, man continues to find remedies for the life-threatening diseases using his creative faculty. Sadly, that faculty has failed human species, being exploited to design and produce lethal hardware to fight wars.

Can the faculty of creativity in a person be created? Or is it an inborn gift? are questions that are surely fascinating to debate, more than answering without ambiguity. Schooling and creativity may not be intimately connected, going by the remark by the famed British Philosopher Bertrand Russel: "Education is one of the chief obstacles to intelligence and freedom of thought" (the two ingredients of creativity). The episode in which the legendary explorer Christopher Columbus (1451-1506) came out unscathed when his jealous detractors thought nothing of his superior mental faculty (they struggled unsuccessfully to make the egg stand on its narrow tip, but the explorer showed his creative genius by pressing the egg hard on the table achieving stable equilibrium for it, remarking that no condition was stipulated to make it happen).

Perseverance and an outlook of not-giving-up being the soul and life of creativity, its seeds have to be sown in childhood and nurtured all along in daily life. Starting with A-for-apple, B-for-bat and the rest of the school scene is not the best start to play the game of chasing creativity. Albert Einstein serves as an outstanding example of avoiding the school to enable him to learn. Again, one has to wear one's thinking cap to come out with a creative alternative.

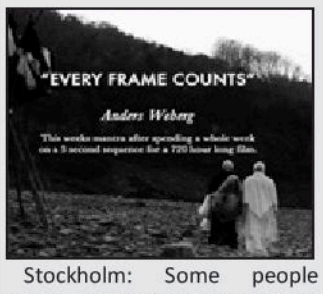
'720-Hour Film'



Stockholm: Some people have problems sitting through a 2-hour movie without falling asleep, but that's merely a blink of an eye compared to 'Ambiencé,' an upcoming film by Swedish director Anders Weberg, which will last for a whopping 720 hours. That's 30 days of continuous screening time.

After working in the field of visual arts for over two decades, Anders Weberg plans to end his career in 2020. But he wants to go out with a bang, by creating the longest film in the history of cinema. Called 'Ambiencé,' the epic 720-hour work of art will be screened simultaneously on all continents, for one time only, after which the Swedish director plans to destroy all copies, so that it can never be screened again. If you're hoping for a plat to keep you on the edge of your seat for 30 days, 'Ambiencé,' isn't it. Weberg claims that his masterpiece is not a "scripted, dramaturgical piece."

For mother's sake!

Beijing: An unnamed man from Guilin, China, has melted the hearts of millions after it was reported that he has been dressing as a woman ever since his sister passed away, 20 years ago, in order to console his grieving mother.

A Pear video showing a man wearing a traditional chameleon dress while looking after his mother, recently went viral, having been watched over 4 million times. He isn't just any cross-dresser, in fact, he doesn't even prefer women's clothes, but he has been wearing them exclusively for two decades, in order to make his old mother happy. The woman had begun showing signs of mental illness following the death of her daughter, so one day he put on a woman's dress, just to make her happy. She liked it so much that he kept doing it for 20 years. Despite suffering from mental problems, the man's mother seems both aware and appreciative of what her son has been doing for her these last two decades. In the video, she can be heard saying "She is my daughter, when my other daughter died she became my daughter." As you can imagine, people are in awe of the man's dedication to make his mother happy.

Clean City: Descending from one to five

Sir,

The hopes of Mysuru for a hat-trick, on being adjudged as the cleanest city for the third time, was shattered when it was pushed down to the fifth place, conceding the honour to Indore which, like Mysuru, is an ex-Princely State in Madhya Pradesh ruled by Holkar Dynasty.

The most benevolent and revered ruler of Indore was Ahalya Bai who was a philanthropist and God-fearing person generous enough for the renovation of many temples, prominent of them being Kashi Vishwanath temple in Varanasi and Somanath in Gujarat.

Now coming to our own Mysuru, it seems, the stretch on Dhanvantri road abutting the K.R. Hospital Stone Building upto the traffic island where a temple is located, has escaped the eyes of the judges who awarded the gradings though it is conspicuously located in the heart of the city. Had they seen it, the grading would have dipped down further from the fifth place.

The opposite Lanes and Crosses behind Agarwal Lodge and Indra Bhavan are no better. The stench of the rotting vegetables and fruits overflowing from the garbage containers dumped by the godowns located there greet the passersby and the stray dogs and cattle searching for their meal in the man's dumpyard make a mess of the area.

With all such trash around us, how can we claim that our Mysuru is the cleanest city? At the most, it can be termed as the least dirty city as stated by Vikram Muthanna in his write-up 'Black& White' (Star of Mysore dated May 6, 2017).

Instruct officials to complete parking lot, amphitheatre works before Dasara

Home Stay agents to face the music, says Kodagu SP

Kodagu Superintendent of Police (SP) Rajendra Prasad is seen speaking at an interaction programme organised by Rotary Misty Hills, Madikeri, as Club President Rtn. H.T. Anil and Secretary Rtn. P.M. Sandeep look on.

Madikeri, July 21- The Kodagu Police are keeping a close watch on home stays as certain home stays are party to crime and other illegal activities. The number of registered home stays in Kodagu is less when compared to unregistered ones and action will be taken on home stay agents who trouble tourists, said Kodagu Superintendent of Police (SP) Rajendra Prasad.

He was recently speaking at an interaction meet organised by the newly-installed team of Rotary Misty Hills, Madikeri at Rotary Hall in Madikeri. Members of various associations and public participated in the meeting.

The SP said that agents appointed by several home stays were threatening tourists and were forcibly taking them to particular home stays against their will. This unhealthy competition among the agents has resulted in law and order problem. "These agents are bringing disrepute to Kodagu tourism and will be dealt with iron hand," he said.

Elaborating, Rajendra Prasad said that home stays have a greater role in making Kodagu a tourist destination by offering various facilities. "Earlier, home stays were devoted to promote tourism and now-a-days, they are bent on making money. Mushrooming of home stays, profiteering and certain unscrupulous elements are spoiling the name of home stay business," the SP said.

Mentioning that many home stays have become hubs of flesh trade and other illegal activities, the SP said that certain home stays were involved in honey-trapping incidents where women were used to lure unsuspecting victims to home stays where they are robbed. "We have taken action against some of them and stringent measures will be intensified to curb any illegal activity," he added.

Listening to the comments and observations of the audience, Rajendra Prasad agreed that certain tourists do not respect local traditions and act in an unruly way. Kodagu Home Stay Association Secretary K.M. Karumbaiah said that home stay agents fleece both tourists and the home stay owners for commission. "This has led to arguments between tourists and agents. The Police must take steps to control them," he said.

The SP himself recounted an incident where home stay agents had stopped his vehicle where he was travelling with his friend. "Some home stay agents stopped my vehicle at the middle of the night asking us about a home stay requirement. They backed off when I revealed my identity," Rajendra Prasad said.

He assured that he will crackdown on the supply of ganja (marijuana) in the district. Expressing concern that many college students were becoming ganja addicts, he said that patrol teams will be formed to watch and take action on ganja supplying rackets.

Rotary Misty Hills President Rtn. H.T. Anil, Secretary Rtn. P.M. Sandeep, Past President Rtn.Keshava Prasad Muliya, Lions Club Secretary Madhukar Shet, Director Naveen Ambekal, Kodagu Press Club President A.R. Kuttappa and others were present.

Kovind to be sworn-in as President on July 25

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is seen greeting the newly-elected President of India Ram Nath Kovind in New Delhi.

New Delhi, July 21- NDA candidate Ram Nath Kovind was yesterday elected as the 14th President of India after receiving an overwhelming majority of votes from the country's lawmakers. Kovind defeated Opposition candidate Meira Kumar, a former Lok Sabha Speaker after garnering 66 percent of the votes in the Electoral College, Returning Officer Anoop Mishra announced.

The 71-year-old, who will be the second Dalit to hold the top Constitutional position after K.R. Narayanan, received 2,930 votes with a value of 7,02,044. Kovind will be the first BJP member to be elected President. He will be sworn-in by the Chief Justice of India J.S. Khehar in the Central Hall of Parliament on July 25.

Meira polled in 1,844 votes with a value of 3,67,314. A total of 4,896 voters — 4,120 MLAs and 776 elected MPs — were eligible to cast their ballot. The polling was marked by cross-voting in various States, namely Gujarat, Assam, Goa, Maharashtra and Uttar Pradesh, where many Opposition members favoured Kovind.

In an address after the official announcement, Ram Nath Kovind thanked all those who supported him in his journey and said that the moment is emotional for him. He vowed to represent all those struggling to make a living. "I never aspired to be the President but my election is an evidence of the greatness of Indian democracy. My win is also a message to those discharging their duties with integrity," he said.

Ram Nath Kovind also said that it is his duty to protect the Constitution and uphold its values as the President. "I pay my respects to my countrymen and assure them that I'll serve the nation in the spirit of 'Sarve Bhavantu Sukhinah' (May all be happy)," he said.

Claims of Kerala IPS Officer's wife over Kodagu forests rejected

Jacob Thomas, IPS

Madikeri, July 21- The Karnataka Forest Department has rejected the appeal by Daisy Jacob, wife of former Kerala Director General of Police (DGP) Jacob Thomas, demanding the cancellation of proceedings initiated by Madikeri Assistant Conservator of Forests (ACF).

The ACF had issued an order asking her to vacate 151.03 acres in Madikeri, which is part of a reserve forest (Pattighat range at Kopatti village) near Bhagamandala in Kodagu district. As per Thomas' property statement submitted to the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) on January 1, 2017, the land was purchased in Daisy's name in 1990 when the land value was Rs. 15 lakh. The present value is estimated at Rs. 18.12 crore.

Also, the property, used for horticulture, generates revenue of Rs. 35 lakh annually. The latest order issued by Kodagu Chief Conservator of Forests Manoj Kumar on July 7, has asked Daisy Jacob to vacate the forest land before Aug. 7.

It may be recalled here that Manoj Kumar has now been transferred as Chief Conservator of Forests, Project Elephant, Bengaluru.

In his order issued in November last year, Madikeri ACF Ranganath gave a month's time to Daisy Jacob to prove her claim on the land, which she has owned since 1991.

The incident came to light after a forest survey conducted by the Forest Department revealed that the 151 acres was part of the reserve forest since 1901. The survey was carried out as per the direction of the High Court in 2003.

The ACF's eviction order was issued under Section 64A of the Karnataka Forests Act, 1963 as it has been notified as reserve forest in 1904 itself. The order had said that if there was any grievance for the title holder, she could appeal before the Chief Conservator of Forests, Kodagu Circle in Madikeri within 30 days from the issue of the order.

Following this, Daisy had appealed before the CCF challenging the ACF's order. The issue went through multiple legal processes before the Forest Department finally concluded that the title holder (Daisy) had encroached on forest land.

The legal battle regarding the ownership of the land began in September 1999, with the issue being examined by the Karnataka High Court.

Daisy Jacob, however, maintained that she had purchased the land from Hanuman Tobacco Company and has all the necessary documents to prove her ownership, including sale deeds.

Sreenivasa Prasad blames Congress Govt. for Dakshina Kannada violence

State Flag an election gimmick

Mysuru, July 21(PM&DM)- Blaming the Congress Government for communal flare up and violence in coastal region, former Minister and State BJP Vice-President V. Sreenivasa Prasad has observed that the flare up could have been avoided if the State Intelligence Wing was alert and took timely action.

Addressing his first press meet in city after the April 2017 Nanjangud by-polls, at Hotel President on B.N. Road this morning, Sreenivasa Prasad congratulated NDA candidate Ram Nath Kovind for winning the Presidential polls.

Reiterating that the State Government should be squarely blamed for recent violence across Dakshina Kannada district, Prasad said that the CM's arrogant stance on key issues had resulted in the deterioration of Law and Order situation.

Coming down heavily on the Home Minister's Advisor Kempaiah's style of functioning, Prasad said that the people had a 'taste' of Kempaiah's style of functioning when he was serving in the Police Department and in this context it was not correct on the part of the Chief Minister to entrust the Home Minister's responsibility to Kempaiah.

Strongly condemning the Parappana Agrahara jail row, in which massive corruption in the State jails came to the fore, the BJP leader took exception to the transfer of DIG Roopa for exposing corruption.

Alleging that there was no place for honest officers like C. Shikha, Rashmi Mahesh and D. Roopa, V. Sreenivasa Prasad claimed that there was a complete breakdown of Law and Order in the State, with increase in crimes against women, murders etc.

Referring to the State Flag, Prasad said the 'Naada Dhwaja' (State Flag) issue is an emotional one and the administrators need to handle the issue very carefully.

Maintaining that as per his knowledge, there was no provision under the Constitution for a State to have its own Flag, Prasad said that it was a political gimmick by CM Siddharamaiah with Assembly polls round the corner.

Referring to the suicide of T. Narasipur Tahsildar Shankaraiah, he said that sand and other mafias had gained control of T. Narasipur. Tahsildar Shankaraiah, who was an honest officer, may have ended his life unable to bear the harassment by the powers that be, he said and demanded a CID probe into the death of the Tahsildar.

District BJP President M. Shivanna, City President Dr. B.H. Manjunath, Hotelier M. Rajendra , former MLC C. Ramesh, leaders K.R. Mohan Kumar and C. Basavegowda were present at the press meet.

MPVL marker pens to replace indelible ink vials

A worker gives a demo on preparation of paint at MPVL today.

The MPVL has already developed such marker pens on the instructions from the ECI India with technical support from National Physical Laboratory, National Research Development Corporation and the National Chemical Laboratory on the technology, the colour combination and the texture of the ink.

Explaining about the marker pen, MPVL Chairman H.A. Venkatesh told the SEC that the company was ready to supply marker pens to the upcoming Urban Local Body elections in January 2018. The SEC said that the purpose of his visit was to examine the facilities at MPVL to manufacture the marker pens and submit a report to the ECI.

A different version of the specially designed marker pen was used in the recently conducted Presidential elections where 1,000 pens were supplied to mark the ballot papers. Only such votes that had the markings from the pen were considered valid. Venkatesh told the SEC that MPVL was geared up to meet the requirements for the local bodies elections.

"We are ready to supply marker pens for the local body elections, 2018 Assembly elections and the General Elections in 2019. We have innovated new technology with polyurethane paints and we have modernised our plant to meet the huge requirement," Venkatesh said.

Explaining the benefits of the marker pen, he said, "Marker pens are convenient, user-friendly and economical. When we used to transport the indelible ink vials in containers, there were complaints of wastage, leakages and spill-over. With the marker pens now, there are no such fears and it is convenient to carry and to apply. It also saves time of the polling booth officials."

Sreenivasachari told the MPVL authorities that a series of elections were lined up after January 2018 and he had come to inspect the MPVL to study its preparedness. "I came here to examine the viability of the marker pens, cost factors and other issues. For the local body election alone, we would need over 55,000 pens to mark over 3 crore voters," he said.

MPVL chairman Venkatesh said that each pen could be used to mark 1,000 voters. A 5 ml pen costs Rs. 37.45 and a 10 ml pen costs Rs. 142 plus taxes. A 10-ml marker pen can be applied on 2,000 voters.

MPVL Managing Director Siddalingappa B. Poojari, Chief Executive Officer C. Hara Kumar and others were present during the inspection.

ICC WOMEN'S WORLD CUP 2017

Harmanpreet's ton guides India to finals

Derby, July 21- A magnificent unbeaten century by Harmanpreet Kaur (171 not out of 115 balls) helped India beat defending champions Australia by 36 runs in the semi-final of ongoing ICC Women's World Cup at the county ground here yesterday.

Chasing a daunting total of 282 in a match that was reduced to 42 overs because of rain, the defending champions were bowled out for 245 in the 40th over. Apart from Villani (75) and Alex Blackwell (90), none of the Australian batters were able to stay long at the crease.

However, Blackwell did threaten to take the game away from the women in blue with some powerful hitting towards the end of the game, but the mammoth total turned out to be too much for the Aussies. Deepti Sharma was the pick of the Indian bowlers as she took three wickets.

Apart from her, Jhulan Goswami and Shikha Pandey both picked 2 wickets each and contributed to the side's astounding victory against the Meg Lanning led-side.

Earlier, winning the toss and electing to bat in Derby, which was virtually India's home ground, Harmanpreet played gem of an innings, scoring 171 not out to propel India to 281. She smashed the Australian bowlers to all parts of the ground and was absolutely brutal with her power hitting. Her 115-ball knock was studded with 20 fours and seven sixes and was rightly adjudged the player of the match award. India will face hosts England in what could be expected as a cracker of a final on Sunday at the Lord's.

WORD OF THE DAY

Harrumph

Pronunciation: huh-ruhmf
Meaning: To clear the throat audibly in a self-important manner; to express oneself gruffly.
Example: The professor harrumphed good-naturedly.
Origin: Harrumph was first recorded in the 1930s. It is imitative of the sound made by clearing the throat.

THE ODD WORD

Lablab

A tropical Asian plant of the pea family.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Jump the gun

Meaning: Something that occurs too early before preparations are ready. Starting too soon.

Example: My wife thinks I might be jumping the gun here since it's so expensive, but I think I'm going to use the money I've been saving for the past decade to buy this new car.
Origin: This phrase is believed to come from foot racing. It's common for some foot races to begin with the firing of a gun into the air. The sound of the shot basically means "GO!" However, not everyone has the patience to wait until they hear the shot. Yes, there are times when a runner will start the race prematurely before the starter even has a chance to fire his pistol, and thus, that runner is jumping the gun. This phrase is now used for anything that is done too soon.
The expression goes at least as far back as 1830, when the newspaper Jacksonville Journal Courier uses it in an advice column where people would write in to a woman named Abby for counsel: "When you describe his condition as 'dying,' you create the impression that you are rushing him to the cemetery. He could live quite a while, so don't jump the gun."
